

CO<sub>2</sub>Chem Video Prize 2019

We are pleased to announce that a new science-media prize has been announced for 2019. The prize will be awarded in two categories for the best short form documentary showing how Carbon Dioxide Utilisation can be used as part of an approach to remove fossil-based carbon from the economy. This is all part of an effort to reduce and then reverse the harmful effects of climate change.

Categories will be independent productions and school-endorsed productions.

- Videos should be no more than 3:00 minutes. Anything longer will be excluded.
- Please be creative. As a guide, reading a script to camera is unlikely to be successful. The same holds true for PowerPoint Presentations.
- We are looking for creativity in content and delivery. People doing things and interacting make great videos, as does the use of props.
- The subject must be carbon dioxide utilisation but any angle on this will be acceptable. Its relevance to climate change and the circular economy are especially welcomed.
- Videos should be in landscape format (preferably wide-screen HD).
- Any media including music and images must be original so as to not infringe copyright issues. The videos will be linked on the www.co2chem.com website.
- Videos should be posted on YouTube or Vimeo and a link and copy of the original sent to info@co2chem.co.uk
- Winners will be required to submit the original format video as well so we can promote it.

We look forward to experiencing your creativity.

Prizes will be awarded for the best videos in each of the two categories and we will publicise them on the CO<sub>2</sub>Chem website and wider. The winners will be invited to the University of Sheffield where the videos will be premiered and the winners presented with their awards.

The submitted videos will be judged by an expert panel including scientists, engineers and social scientists together with an expert from the world of media/journalism.

Closing Date is 12:00 on Friday 15 November 2019

Winners will be notified in December 2019
